

Dashboards

A Zoola™ dashboard displays several reports in a single, integrated view. A dashboard can include input controls for choosing the data displayed in one or more frames, and custom frames that point to URLs for other content. By combining different types of related content, you can create appealing, data-rich dashboards that quickly convey trends. Dashboards created with Zoola™ use the Dashboard Designer—Zoola™'s web UI for grouping all of these elements—along with creating new content from existing data sources. The majority of the information in this chapter applies to dashboards created with Zoola™.
